

Case Study:

Australian Taxation Office (ATO) PayDay Super Program

Powerdata Group supported the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) in delivering critical components of the PayDay Super initiative, focusing on improving compliance, data accuracy, and real-time reporting of employee superannuation obligations.

Client

Australian Taxation Office (ATO), Canberra

Challenge

- Ensuring accurate and timely capture of employee information across multiple systems
- Managing complex validation rules aligned with evolving regulatory requirements
- Delivering scalable digital forms and services capable of handling high transaction volumes
- Aligning multiple stakeholders including business units, technical teams, and external delivery partners
- Maintaining data integrity while enabling frequent updates and ongoing service improvements

The Outcome

- Successfully delivered EDF V1 and EDF V2 in line with program timelines and regulatory expectations
- Improved accuracy, consistency, and timeliness of employee data capture across ATO systems
- Enhanced compliance readiness in support of the PayDay Super reforms
- Strengthened stakeholder alignment through structured Agile delivery and clear governance
- Established a scalable and robust foundation for future service enhancements and regulatory change

Our Work

Powerdata Group delivered Business Analysis and Product Ownership for the Employee Details Form (EDF), designing a compliant, scalable solution and managing Agile delivery. They engaged stakeholders, successfully released EDF V1 and V2, and supported ongoing improvements, enhancements, and regulatory alignment.
